Searching for people.

Important! Only the people (papal representatives, their relatives and popes) already recorded in the database can be searched by their full or fractional names. The search must contain at least 3 characters to get results.

The research can be completed with so-called Tags, which are related to certain topics (under construction) and can complement thematically the basic search.

Based on the given name (without tags) every person is listed with the same name-variant.

Searching only on names

Result: the records are listed by the system showing only certain basic data: the person's name is the Hungarian / English name recorded in the system, below that some basic information about the person which help to decide whether it is the person the user was looking for, or not. The Name-variants offer further help in this decision. The two last columns help to determine when the people were recorded in the database and when the data were updated for the last time.

You should type at least 3 characters in the field of the appointer in order to choose the pope who you are looking for. The geographical-political aspect of the papal authorization works the same way. You will have to choose the territory from the list of medieval forms of geographical areas (e.g. Dalmatia, Slavonia) which are not identical in every case with contemporary states.

Facultas search

The facultas is understood as a special licence of the legate which he received from the pope, namely managing benefices, using ecclesiastical censures, regulating the state of ecclesiastical institutions, etc. A papal representative could receive a facultas for his person or attached to an authorization, so there is a further option for the detailed research. The appointer, the geographical-political aspect, the ecclesiastical frameworks, the place of authorization and the time frame can be searched as well.

The type of the facultas and if needed the connected papal authorization (optionally) can be chosen in a drop-down menu from the previously defined categories. Territories are medieval areas and can be chosen by giving at least 3 characters, like in the case of dioceses and places of authorizations.

For correction and clearing, use the X button on the right side. You can also narrow the search for a specific time frame

legatus a latere (1159-10 Uncertain date - 1160-9 Uncertain date)

Appointer: Alexander III \(Alexander Tertius, Rolando, Orlando Bandinelli\)
Hungary

Notes

He arrived in Hungary to have Alexander III recognized. According to the text of the Liber pontificalis, he departed at the end of 1159 with Petrus de Mizo. The pope's letter issued in 1160 asked the citizens of Split to receive the two envoys honestly. But the legation was unsuccessful, Julius returned in Italy at last at the end of the year, his presence is noticed in Anagni on 28 January 1161.

Notes

In the spring of 1160 Géza did not take Alexander III's side expressly. His task was, together with Petrus de Mizo to convince the Hungarian king to do this, that had not happend yet, he had to leave the kingdom without any succes, and he returned in the next year.

The correct form for citation of the personal datasheet is shown in the right upper corner under the main menu.

Appointer: Leo IX (Leo Nonus, Szent Leó, Brúnó, Brunon de Toul)

Hungary

Notes

Hugo arrived in Hungary as Leo IX nuncius in 1051 to mediate in the conflict opposing the Hungarian king Andrew I and the emperor Henry III. He failed because of Henry's opposition, the emperor launched in autumn of 1051 a military campaign against Hungary and in 1052 Henry attacked Pressburg. Hugh was chosen by the pope because he became the godfather of the emperor's son, that is why Hugh went to Cologne (Easter 1051), hence he returned to Cluny with the emperor's gifts, and during the autumn-winter of 1051 Hugh he entered in Hungary. The king Andrew I tried to conclude a favourable peace. It is possible however that Hugh was present in Hungary in 1052 during the siege of Pressburg, and, based on the evidence of Gilo's biography, it is not to be rejected that he was acted with the pope himself. The Hildebert's vita suggest too, that Hugh returned to Hungary to reestablish the peace. He negotiated with king Andrew and he left Hungary. On the backway however he was attacked and captured by a certain "dux Theutonicorum" who is probably identified with Konrad, Duke of Bavaria. Released, Hugh maybe returned to the king Andrew in 1053. Following Gilos information: "[...] Itaque sanctum Hugonem pubescenti aetate uernantem uenire ad se innuitait, inuitatum gloriosissime excepit, et ut filium Henricum tertium [recte: quartum] de sacro fonte leuaret granter obtinuit. Tunc etiam pascha celebravit paschalis agni filius una cum imperatore, angelica Cluniacensium seniorum stipatus caterua, in Agrippina Coloniae. Qui cultus humilitate purpuratos principes, suauis persuasione magniloquos Saxones, uultus mansuetudine Alamannos crudeles ad glorificandum Deum mirabiliter excitabat. Nec muto post uix ab augusto laxatus Cluniacum rediit, muneribus comitatus et gratia, bonis deuotionem et sanctae conuersationis aemulationem relinquens in curia. Similiter et munera detulit a rege Hungarorum aurumque illud quo effigiatum fuit grande satis turribulum. Illuc iussi Romani pontificis profectus, pace reformata et expleta legatione rediens a quondam duce Theutonicorum captus [...]."

Notes

Pope Nicolas II initiated in 1059 the reordination of the election of popes during the synode of Lateran (Rome). He sent at the same time Hugh to Aquitany as legate, and cardinal of St. Grisogonus, Stephen to north and eastern France. Kohnle says that Hugh was sent to southern France to supervise, among other activities the election of Gerardus Caprarius to bishop of Sisteron. In 1063 he went to Rome, the pope Alexander II replaced him with Petrus Damianus.

VII. PAPAL AUTHORIZATIONS

nuncius (1051-06 After - 1052-08 Before)

Appointer: Leo IX (Leo Nonus, Szent Leó, Brúnó, Brunon de Toul)
 Hungary

Notes

Hugo arrived in Hungary as Leo IX nuncius in 1051 to mediate in the conflict opposing the Hungarian king Andrew I and the emperor Henry III. He failed because of Henry's opposition, the emperor launched in autumn of 1051 a military campaign against Hungary and in 1052 Henry attacked Pressburg. Hugh was chosen by the pope because he became the godfather of the emperor's son, that is why Hugh went to Cologne (Easter 1051), hence he returned to Cluny with the emperor's gifts, and during the autumn-winter of 1051 Hugh he entered in Hungary. The king Andrew I tried to conclude a favourable peace. It is possible however that Hugh was present in Hungary in 1052 during the siege of Pressburg, and, based on the evidence of Giló's biography, it is not to be rejected that he was acted with the pope himself. The Hildebert's vita suggest too, that Hugh returned to Hungary to reestablish the peace. He negotiated with king Andrew and he left Hungary. On the backway however he was attacked and captured by a certain "dux Theutonicorum" who is probably identified with Konrad, Duke of Bavaria. Released, Hugh maybe returned to the king Andrew in 1053. Following Gilos information: „[...] Itaque sanctum Hugonem pubescenti aetate uernantem uenire ad se inuitauit, inuitatum gloriosissime exceptit, et ut filium Henricum tertium [recte: quartum] de sacro fonte leuaret granter obtinuit. Tunc etiam pascha celebrauit paschalis agni filius una cum imperatore, angelica Cluniacensium seniorum stipatus caterua, in Agrippina Coloniae. Qui cultus humilitate purpuratos principes, suaui persuasione magniloquos Saxones, uultus mansuetudine Alamannos crudeles ad glorificandum Deum mirabiliter excitabat. Nec muto post uix ab augusto laxatus Cluniacum rediit, muneribus comitatus et gratia, bonis deutionem et sanctae conuersationis aemulationem relinquens in curia. Similiter et munera tulit a rege Hungarorum aurumque illud quo effigiatum fuit grande satis thuribulum. Illuc iussi Romani pontificis profectus, pace reformata et expleta legatione rediens a quondam duce Theutonicorum captus [...]”.

Downloading personal datasheet

The personal datasheet can be downloaded from the online system with the help of the Documents button. Other types of documents related to the people are available here as well (under construction). Next to the personal datasheet the box has to be checked, then the user can click on Download selected button for the pdf file.

The heading of the pdf file contains the following basic information: the name of the person, the access to the file and the time of the download. These data facilitate easier to create a bibliographical reference.

Statistics

The records of the database enable to create statistical analyses. The Statistics button is to find under the Search menu.

At first, Statistics will show an overall result. Displaying the statistic data might take some time. The menu contains two main features: 1) a searching field 2) and the results of the statistical results.

1) Searching field

The search can be filtered here, the system searches according to the basic settings on (medieval) Hungary and the neighbouring countries. The user can change the territories by checking the boxes.

The search can be narrowed by papal pontificate, papal assignment and date as well. In the first two cases, 3 popes can be added to the research at the same time, the pontifices can be chosen from a list offered by the system after typing at least 3 characters.

The search can be more refined with the help of the two first fields. The left one contains the categories of the papal authorizations (e.g. apocrisiarius, cardinal legate, etc.), whereas the right one the types of the authorizations (e.g. diplomacy, church government, etc.).

Results appear in different ways:

a) In form of a pie chart, the division of the legations based on territory and type

b) On a timeline based on the time frame of the legations bound to years.

c) On a timeline, the time aspect of the legations. Every papal representative is shown on this type, as well as the periods of their activities. The colours refer to certain type of the activities. If the cursor touches the names of the people, a short summaries of the legations pops up.

TIMELINE OF PAPAL AUTHORIZATIONS

You can choose here between the whole statistics and those types which concern certain popes. In case of the second variant, relevant information appears in every segment (see above, a-c)
